

SECOND NOTE TO GERMANY IS FINISHED

WILSON COMPLETES DOCUMENT WHICH MAY BE DISPATCHED LATE THIS AFTERNOON.

PUT BEFORE CABINET

Draft of New Message is Placed Before President's Advisers for Their Approval.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Agree to Pay for Guilt.

Washington, June 4.—Ambassador Gerard called the state department today a note from the German government, agreeing to pay an indemnity for the damage done by a German submarine to the American steamer Guilford, torpedoed off the Scilly Islands.

Washington, June 4.—The American government's rejoinder to the recent German note concerning the sinking of the Lusitania, was ready to be sent before the cabinet today. President Wilson drafted the communication himself. It is short and to the point. It asks definitely whether Germany intends to be guided in the future by the humane principles embodied in international law for the conduct of maritime warfare.

The dispatch of the note to Berlin only awaits the cabinet's approval.

May Send Note Today.

President Wilson finished the new note to Germany today and laid it before the cabinet. The contents will be dispatched to Berlin late today or tomorrow. No arrangements yet have been made as to the time when it will be made public. White House officials said today that while the president had penned the note himself, he had consulted with Secretary Bryan over the principal details. He also has been in constant consultation with General Gregory, who investigated the Lusitania case.

The government is convinced that there is no ground for that contention and the note will so inform Germany.

Special Messenger on Way.

While the president and cabinet were discussing the note, a German general was on his way to Berlin to present a first-hand report of the interview which Count von Bernstorff had Wednesday with President Wilson. Officials in the German embassy consider the report a diplomatic victory, but it became known authoritatively that Mr. Gerard, who sailed from New York for Copenhagen on the steamer Guilford, had been given the assurance of safe conduct, obtained of the American government, from the alibi that the man is an attaché of the German colonial office and has been in the States several months, representing the German Red Cross. He goes to Berlin to present first-hand the views of the American government as Count von Bernstorff has received from President Wilson.

Difficulties of communication through the war zones, the German embassy feels, has deprived the Berlin foreign office of full light on American positions.

The dispatch of the envoy was the basis of much confidence in German quarters here, where it was believed an understanding on submarine warfare would be reached.

The United States could be evolved. His task, however, is realized as a difficult one, because feeling among German officials and the public is such that any suggestion of a German reply, response, here has been that the American government was seeking to deprive Germany of its chief weapon of defense—the submarine.

Must Agree on Principle.

The day's cabinet meeting began with all members practically agreed that the United States cannot consider a German reply, response, and must insist before the diplomatic correspondence can proceed further, upon an affirmative or negative answer to the principle that lives of non-combatants cannot lawfully be imperiled on the high seas, but must be transferred to safety before a legitimate prize is destroyed.

The purpose of the United States is to see how the contending military factions in Mexico take President Wilson's warning. The situation and the United States are cooperating with the American Red Cross and carrying forward comprehensive plans for relieving the Mexican civil population from the horrors of famine and hunger resulting from the incessant warfare in the northern republic.

WHEN FAST CAR HITS BUMP

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Bick and the four-year-old son of the latter, were the guests of Arthur G. Metzinger yesterday afternoon in an automobile trip to Lake Delavan. Mr. Metzinger was driving the elevated spots in one section of the road, causing the passenger to be bounced considerably. Mrs. Bick's nose struck the top of the car and was slightly lacerated. The forehead was also bruised. Mr. Bick received slight injuries to his head when he was bounced into the air and falling back struck one of the collapsible chairs.

ENDS RUSSIAN MENACE

Latest German Victory is Hailed as Proof of Eventual Success of Germanic Cause in All Quarters.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Berlin, via London, June 4.—The jubilation throughout Germany and Austria-Hungary over the fall of Przemyśl, is mingled with surprise at the speed with which the campaign against this stronghold was brought to this successful end. Vienna, Prague and Budapest all have witnessed scenes of wild rejoicing over the latest victory in Galicia.

Like Berlin, these three cities are bedecked with flags, singing and nately Austrian and German national anthems. Almost all the expert observers in Berlin expected a stubborn resistance on the part of the Russian forces at Przemyśl.

Prepared for Long Siege.

Furthermore, conditions within the stronghold show the Russians were looking forward to a long siege and that they had endeavored to prepare for it. The correspondent of the Vossische Zeitung says the Russians brought reinforcements to Przemyśl from Lemberg and heavy artillery and ammunition from Lublin over the new strategic railroad. Ivgorod and Brest-Litovsk also were called on to supply the needed materials and even the city of Lemberg was put on a war footing with feverish haste. The middle fort was used to this end and the Jewish population was compelled to evacuate the city. Siege operations on the part of the Austrians and German forces were necessary because the Russians during their two months of occupation, had in a measure restored the fortifications.

Continuing, the paper's correspondent says, the artillery attack reached its climax on Sunday when the forts were literally sprayed with shells. The moment the German commander noticed a slackening of the Russian fire, storming operations began. The Russians defended themselves until the last moment. They had no time to reduce any guns or material. No prisoners were taken available as to the number of prisoners taken.

Russian Menace Broken.

In an editorial article the Vossische Zeitung declared that the Russian menace in Austria-Hungary was broken. It said that the Russian army has been deprived of its dearest wish, the possession of Galicia, which was to have been a new Russia.

Lokal Anzeiger publishes a special dispatch from the Russian lines on the eastern and southeast side of Przemyśl in the direction of Medyka and Siedliska have not yet been passed. It claims that the Russians are using reserves advanced in years and youths of the 1917 class throughout all Galicia, in their desperate attempt to get a breathing space.

The Russians are still fighting stubbornly south of the Dniester and along the banks of the river San. The Morgen Post says the victory shows that the strength of the German army is such that it cannot be broken and cannot be broken.

Called Historic Victory.

The Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung declared this victory is a deed of glory which will live in history. Other papers say the fall of Przemyśl is the indication of the end of the Russian dominance in Galicia and proof of eventual victory everywhere. They are particularly gratified that the stronghold fell before the Austro-German attacks in fewer days than it took the Russians months to capture it.

Minutiae of Importance.

Petrograd, via London, June 4.—Russian troops on the front to the north and west of the fortress of Przemyśl evacuated their positions Wednesday night after all the war material taken from the Austrians had been removed, according to official statement issued last night at the Russian general staff. It is expected that the evacuation will be completed by the end of the week. The evacuation of the fortress was a tactical move, it is said, and it is said that several strategic measures will be offered in the hours before the bill has finally been disposed of.

The third measure of importance to come up next week is the Vint bill to fix the minimum wage for mercantile and industrial establishments. This bill applies only to females over 18 years of age and is strongly opposed by the manufacturing centers of the state, which sent large delegations to the committee in opposition to the bill.

Assemblyman Vint says that he has statistics that show that most of the manufacturing centers is practically impossible for a girl to work on a wage of less than $10 a week. The committee report was four to five on the measure, which indicates that there will be a long and determined fight over the bill.

FOR JULY 4 PROGRAM

Members of the Janesville fair board in charge of the arrangements for the observance of July 4 here, began this afternoon a canvass to secure the downtown district to feel out sentiment and secure backing for their project. Harry O. Nowlan, John C. Soule, John C. Nichols, Edward Parker, W. A. Munro and Edward Amersbach have been directed to assume charge of the arrangements.

Tentative plans for the celebration underwent numerous changes at the weekly meeting of the board last evening. While the matter still hangs in the air, the celebration is almost an assured fact, the short time left to complete arrangements has hurried plans to such an extent that nothing really authentic can be announced by the board at the present time.

The board has decided to eliminate the light program and substitute some other features in its stead. During the afternoon it has been decided to hold two horse races, an automobile, motorcycle and pony race. There will also be a list of athletic events for Janesville's embryo Jim Thorpe. These include 100 and 220 yard dashes, high jump, running and standing broad jumps, a pole vault and a half mile run.

The tenor of the meeting last evening was that a line of downtown attractions following the supper hour would be far more favorable and attract more greatly than a program arranged for the fair grounds. Original plans were for fireworks and horse races, the latter to be run while giant searchlights followed the field about the track.

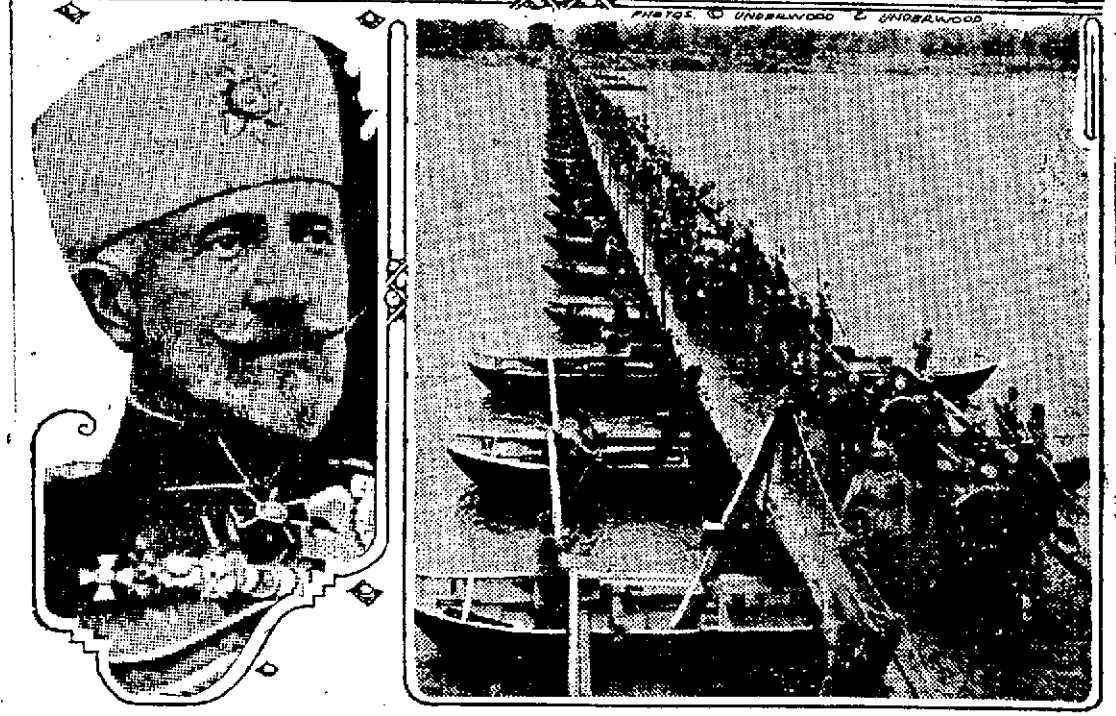

A special meeting of the board will be held Monday evening at which the committees who are at work today will report and following this the advisability of arranging a program on the downtown streets is expected to be decided. Free vaudeville performances, band concerts and other features of like nature are favored by the committees.

Appoints Guardian; Judge Fifeled has named E. A. Bick as guardian for Mrs. Martha Isaacson, whose insanity case is pending in the courts. Mrs. Isaacson is being cared for in the meantime at the county hospital.

Meeting Tonight: A meeting of the L. S. W. A. will be held at the Landonia rooms tonight at eight o'clock.

Shed Fired: A small shed in the rear of the residence of E. T. Fizez, on Cherry street, was damaged slightly by fire yesterday. The department put out the blaze with the hand pump. Children playing with matches were responsible for the fire.

SCORES OF GUNS, THOUSANDS OF CAPTIVES TAKEN BY AUSTRIANS

Official reports are conflicting as to the extent of the disaster to the Russian armies in Galicia during the past few weeks. That the Russians have been compelled to give up much territory and have lost many thousands of troops in killed, wounded and captured is certain. A few of the big guns captured from the Russians are shown in one of the pictures. Some criticism of the tactics of Grand Duke Nicholas, commander in chief of the Russian forces, has been heard.

FINANCE COMMITTEE SLASHES STATE AID IN SESSIONS TODAY

Madison, Wis., June 4.—By the latter part of next week the assembly will be nearly ready for the consideration of the large financial measures of the session. Nearly all of the consolidation bills have now been passed upon by the house and the fight over them will now come before the senate. Three bills will engross the attention of the assembly next week. On Wednesday the central board of education will be taken up and considered. So many substitutes have been offered to this measure and so many other amendments have been prepared that it will be offered later than it is possible this bill alone will occupy an entire day in the assembly.

The water power bill has been recalled from the joint committee on the calendar and will be referred direct to the senate. The senate has required two days' time for consideration, and it is said that several strategic measures will be offered in the hours before the bill has finally been disposed of.

The third measure of importance to come up next week is the Vint bill to fix the minimum wage for mercantile and industrial establishments. MAY SEVER DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS

VON JAGOW'S ATTITUDE TOWARD AMERICA SHOWS NO APPARENT SIGNS OF YIELDING.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Berlin, June 4.—The Kruetz Zeitung in its issues of today, publishes the substance of the interview to the Associated Press, May 30, by Gottlieb von Jagow, the imperial foreign secretary, on Germany's answer to the Washington note concerning the Lusitania case, in which the secretary said he believed it essential to establish a common basis of fact before entering upon a discussion of the issues involved.

This is done, the paper explained, on the strength of the report reaching Berlin from the Reuters Telegram company that the forthcoming American note to Germany forebodes a severance of diplomatic relations with Germany. Continuing the Kruetz Zeitung says:

We want to remind America once more, that Great Britain bears the responsibility for the submarine war. Germany would have stopped it had Great Britain been willing to give up her war of starvation.

"Now that the war of starvation has failed, America comes forth with the unusual proposal that we shall stop the submarine war. Naturally there can be no talk of this. Foreign Secretary von Jagow has pointed out what can be done for the safety of American passengers and ships. America again has been shown the way to reconciliation and the protection of their real interests. But it appears, if one may trust the report about the note, that they do not desire to find this way, but rather do they desire to let the Foreign Secretary to Great Britain, in whose interest they long ago gave up real neutrality."

London Paper's Play Up Fall of Przemyśl in Big Headlines.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Austro-Hungarian Field Headquarters, June 4.—According to information given out by the military authorities to the press, heavy fighting is in progress along virtually the entire Galician front, and the general situation is very favorable to the Austro-Germans. A decisive conclusion to the entire Russian campaign in Galicia is in sight.

Admit Defeat.

London, June 4.—The second editions of the London morning papers publish today the confirmation from official sources in Petrograd of the fall of Przemyśl. The word "surrender" was accordingly struck from the account of the Austro-German victory in Galicia, and the words "Przemyśl lost" constituted the leading headlines in English newspapers today.

The big loop which the Austro-German forces have made around the Przemyśl stronghold has been drawn to a strategic line. At the same time to the southeast Sory has been left behind as General Von Linington's forces are pushing their way toward the Dniester, with Lemberg in their rear.

It is reported that some of these forces already have reached the Dniester near Mikolajew, where Lemberg is only 25 miles away. The north of Przemyśl General Mackensen is now safe, having dared to essay to drive a wedge between the Russian forces at the fort of San and the fortress and made good. It was a risky move, and knowing its peril British observers have been watching with keen interest.

Heavy Costs Taxed

AGAINST LEIGHTON

An order has been issued for the payment of the costs in the Carlton slander suit as assessed against William A. Leighton amounting to $179.08. Unless an affidavit is filed for an appeal, this amount will have to be paid by the complaining witness, Leighton, within a reasonable length of time. The report made by the clerk of the municipal court shows that there were thirty witnesses called and the total amount due for their services is $77.32. The largest item in the account is that of Dr. Edward Billing, who traveled 268 miles and the cost of his testimony was $11.72, and that of F. W. Smalley, who traveled 196 miles, was $3.44. The court officers' fees during the case were $10.60. W. R. Wogan, deputy sheriff, $66.05, and Constable John Comstock, $21.20 and the court costs were listed as being $3.41.

London, June 4.—The Evening Standard says that the Swedish steamer Lapland was sunk last night at a point fifty-five miles off Peterhead, a report of which reached the Foreign Office today. The vessel was sighted, but Captain Peterson stated he believed the vessel was torpedoed.

She carried a crew of nineteen, together with four women, who were landed at Peterhead today. She was 1,400 tons registered, 238 feet long, and was built in 1906 in Sweden.

SEE OLD TAX TROUBLE IF NEW BILL PASSES

ABOLISHMENT OF COMMISSION, OPPONENTS OF STATUTE SAY, WOULD BRING ON FORMER PUZZLES.

MEASURE TO SENATE

Assembly Argues Two Hours Over Matter and Sends it to Senate for Engragement.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., June 4.—After two hours of debate, with the opposition giving rise to the belief that the bill becomes a law the entire taxation system of this state would be rent asunder, the assembly last night sent to the senate the bill abolishing the present tax commission of three members and creating a commission of one salaried member, the governor and state treasurer to serve ex-officio. The bill abolishes the present system for the collection of the income tax and creates a county supervisor for each of the 71 counties to perform the duty and to supervise the local real estate assessments. It also provides to indefinitely postpone the bill, on motion of Assemblyman O'Brien, failed, 43 to 31. The vote follows:

For indefinite postponement—Assemblymen Dobbie, Decker, Erickson, Frederick, Frechot, Hambrecht, Julius Hanson, Heathcote, Heden, Herzog, Hess, Kay, Kent, Kinstelberg, McGowan, Melvin, Metcalfe, Minkley, Nordman, O'Brien, Rantz, Schneider, Schroeder, Smith, Zimm, Vint, Waldron, Weber, Wells, Wells, 31.

Against indefinite postponement—Aulenbacher, Beckwith, Bessinger, Biel, Budlong, Caldwell, Cretney, Crosby, Dickie, Dixon, Edwards, Elting, Everett, Gagner, Hager, Carl Hanson, S. Hanson, Harrington, Hart, Hedding, Helm, Killarney, Low, Kubasta, Kubatzki, Lathrop, Lauren, Lentz, Moran, Morgan, Murphy, Nelson, Poper, Ploeger, Presch, Stenmark, Stewart, Van Dine, Vincent, Winegar, Woodard, Speaker Whitte—43.

Paired—Armenian for the bill, Falk against; Bradley for, O'Brien against.

The debate was opened by Assemblyman O'Brien, who said that the passage of the law would mean practically a return to the old system of taxation; that the inheritance tax, the gift tax, the estate tax, the tax commission, in substitution of the statement displaying a certificate from the office of the secretary of state in the form of a certified copy of the statement, would be a return to the old system of taxation.

Madison for work done on the bill for $19,162.69 was presented. He said the bill was settled by Governor Davidson and Secretary State, by reducing it by practically $11,500, allowing only a fee of $7,662.69. O'Brien said that Mr. Richmond was one of the principal supporters of this bill before the committee, and before he could finish his remarks, Mr. Harrington objected and the speaker warned the Deu Claire so he should confine his remarks to the merits of the bill.

Assemblyman Wells of Grant county said that he objected to the bill because it would precipitate the tax commission into politics. He declared the governor and state treasurer must biennially go on a stump for election, and he did not believe these officials would have time to give proper study to taxation. He also objected to the abolition of the tax by the supervisor of assessments and said this provision of the bill would put the income tax into politics. Assemblyman Vint of Milwaukee declared that the bill was a "wrecking" of the tax system that had been built up carefully for fifteen years. He said the enactment of the bill would not save the people five cents. He added that the cost of administering the tax laws had steadily increased, but credited it to the increased burden placed upon it by the legislatures. FORM ASSOCIATIONS IN INVADEN FRANCE FOR PROPERTY INTEREST.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Paris, June 4.—Inhabitants of each of the invaded departments of France have organized associations for the protection of the interests of those whose property has been taken, damaged or destroyed. These associations have formed a federation whose president, Louis Nicolls of the department of the Nord, has issued an address to the commission appointed by the government to assess war damages. The associations propose that the basis of the estimates be the sums required to fully restore to its original condition all property damaged or destroyed.

BIG COOKING SCHOOL CLOSSES ON SATURDAY

JANESVILLE WOMEN HAVE ENJOYED MISS PEET'S COURSE OF LESSONS TO THE UTMOST.

SESSION IN MORNING

As Well As Afternoon Is Announced In Order to Accommodate the Crowds—Some to Thursday's Receipts.

Program for Saturday.

Morning session 9:30 to 12:00
Afternoon session 2:00 to 4:00

Subject:—
"Deep Fat Frying."

Menu:—
Fish.
Doughnuts.
Saratoga Chips.
Tombatoes.
Fritters.

The women of Janesville are proving themselves deeply interested in efficient housekeeping methods and good wholesomeness in cooking by their constant attendance at the Home Economics School in Myer's theatre.

Miss Peet has been more than pleased with the interest and enthusiasm shown in her work here. She is not surprised, however, as she says she thoroughly aroused to an active interest in good cooking. Miss Peet modestly assumes that this interest is responsible for her success as a lecturer and cookery demonstrator. That this is very largely due however to her own magnetic personality and her thorough knowledge of every subject she discusses, all who hear her agree.

Gazette Satisfied.

The Gazette is grateful to the women of Janesville who have cooperated so heartily in the Better Foods Better Times plan, and have done so much to make the Janesville Home Economics School a rousing success. There have been many requests to make this an annual affair and it will be carried out if it is possible to secure Miss Peet to conduct such a school next year.

Many of the leading women and best housekeepers of the city have attended the school and heartily approve of Miss Peet's method.

Yesterday Miss Peet made a current tea ring out of bread dough with trimmings, which were quite beautiful. She emphasizes at all times the appearance of foods as well as their savoriness and showed how this is valuable in stimulating the appetite and aiding digestion. The women were deeply interested in her instruction in regard to making good home made bread. Miss Peet, has again and again enjoined the women who attended her classes to take good care of their families and children, and she is giving them just the kind of advice they need to do this. Every man likes good bread and Miss Peet told in detail yesterday just how to make it and make good bread with the minimum expenditure of time and effort. She made and served a large number of rolls also.

Planked Steak Much Admired.

One of the prettiest demonstrations she has made was the planked steak this afternoon. It was a perfect beauty and many of the women of admiration greeted it when Miss Peet held it up for inspection.

Tomorrow the Janesville Home Economics School closes much to the regret of everybody connected with it. In order that all may have a chance to see Miss Peet in detail, she is going to hold what she calls an open school tomorrow. At 9:30 she will be ready for pupils and she invites the women to come early and watch her.

Potato Needs.

To two cupsful of hot potatoes add two tablespoonfuls crisco, one-third cup milk, one teaspoonful salt, beat vigorously three minutes. Add to this one and one-half cans of pimientos. Force through a strainer, beat until the mixture is well blended. Fill evenly on a criscoed baking dish. Make six or eight cavities, and in each slip a raw egg. Season and bake until well set.

Stuffed Beets.

Two tablespoonfuls crisco, six beets, two green peppers, two tablespoonfuls breadcrumbs, 1/2 teaspoonful onion juice, salt and pepper to taste. Watercress.

Select six smooth, even-sized beets and boil in boiling salted water until tender. Peel, remove root end and remove center, leaving a shell about half inch thick. Remove stems and seeds from peppers; cover peppers with boiling water ten minutes. Dice them with scupper, add crisco, breadcrumbs, onion juice, watercress, salt and seasonings, mix and divide into beet shells. Bake over twenty minutes. Serve garnished with watercress. Sufficient for six beets.

Jelly Roll.

Four eggs, one cupful sugar two cupsful flour, one teaspoonful baking powder, one teaspoonful salt, four teaspoonful milk, one teaspoonful lemon extract, two tablespoonfuls melted crisco. Jelly, or preserves.

Beat eggs until light, add sugar gradually, beating continuously. Sift in the dry ingredients which have been sifted together. Add milk, extract, and melted crisco. Beat mixture in large flat, well criscoed pan, spreading it out evenly. Bake twelve to fifteen minutes in a moderate oven. Turn out on sugared paper, serves, and roll up at once. The cake will crack if spreading and roll are not quickly done. It will be more easily rolled if the crisp edges are cut off.

The Handy Shoe Bag.

"Last year one member of the family was unable to be out of bed. I took a shoe bag that had ample pockets and pinned it neatly with safety pins to the side of her bed. In its pockets I put her books and various articles that she needed. Everything was within reach."—Woman's Home Companion.

Thursday's Market.

Chicago, June 4.—Armour's drove of hogs yesterday cost a cent lower than Wednesday, or $7.42 per 100 lbs., being better than the day before.

Packing grades averaged a few cents lower, while better kinds sold 5c above the close of the previous day.

There was little change in the cattle trade yesterday, with prices the same as a week ago.

Fancy 102-lb. heifers sold at $9.15, or 2c high.

Some 1,500-lb. beefs at $9.30 were 10c above last month's top for the weight.

Average price of hogs at Chicago was 74c against 73 1/2c Wednesday, $1.74 a week ago, $3.22 a year ago, $3.45 two years ago and $7.50 three years ago.

Late Hog Market Weak.

A heavy supply of 5,225 hogs from Wednesday, the largest in nearly five months, had a depressing effect on packing grades yesterday, which averaged slightly lower. Wednesday's close at $9.08 was second largest in a month. General trade closed weak yesterday. Quotations:

Bulk of sales 7.40@7.60

Heavy butchers, 190@230 7.45@7.55

Light butchers, 145@190 lbs. 7.50@7.65

MCGRAW'S MACHINE NEEDS REPAIRING

Scrappy Leader of the New York Nationals Backed Against Wall to Build Up Winning Team.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
New York, June 4.—John McGraw has his back against the wall. The scrappy little manager of the four-time pennant winning Giants, is at last faced with the prospect of losing a training team. That the outlook does not set as well with the "Little Napoleon" is plainly evidenced by the quick shake-ups that he hands his line-up.

He hasn't quit yet. The word quit doesn't appear in his vocabulary. The pounding that his club is getting from the others in the Tenderloin loop will only serve to make McGraw fight harder than ever. But even his most ardent supporters admit that this year his night looks like a losing one.

To many it looks like the old Giant machine has crumbled. And it is an odd circumstance of fate that the once powerful aggregation is withering away just as two famous machines of other days that cracked a few years ago are getting back into power. These two are the Tigers and the Cubs. The Detroit outfit is run high back to the top as a contender in the American league under the same leader that piloted it in the winning days of the past—"Bee Yuh" Hughie Jennings. The Chicago gang is being pulled back up the ladder of fame by one of McGraw's old lieutenants, Roger Bresnahan. Frank Chance guided the destinies of the old-time pennant copping Cubs—and he was there when they hit the skids, too.

It is the indefinable "something" which is missing from the Giant ranks—that "something" which a club has to have to stay on top through the long, hot days of August and September when the sisters who flash in the spring wither away. The old stars are mostly with the club and seemingly they still deliver the goods. Their batting averages all look good, but what are their work after that? You see that the "punch" is gone. They are not able to rise up and crush the opposition in the crises anymore as they used to do.

Probably the hardest individual blow McGraw got was a wallop by the National league club owners. They reduced the number of players any club could carry to twenty-one. McGraw, the hardest hit of any National league manager. Last year when he was raiding the ranks of organized ball, McGraw, to protect himself, signed most of his veterans under long-time contracts. Now he hasn't room for the youngsters that he needs in order to build up a club for the future.

Obituaries have been written about the Old Master—Christy Mathewson—year after year. Already he has been consigned to the boneyard this year. But he is still out there on the Giant bench and he will be on the big time many times this season. And when the hot sun of July and August melts the kinks out of his arm, the "Old Master" will chalk up many a victory on the Giants' state.

Big Jeff Tesreau, the least flashy of the Giants' twirlers, but the most dependable, is working like a Trojan these days. He is big and capable of working often and McGraw is pushing him to the limit until some of his others get going. Rube Marland flashes a few great games and then slumps. There is still the chance that he will get right and stay there and if he does he is unbeatable. After he handed the Cubs a beating in the first game of their last series here, Roger Bresnahan was heard to exclaim:

"No club in the world could beat the fellow the way he is going to. If he keeps that up, McGraw won't have to worry."

Young Strouver, a rookie, surprised McGraw and thousands of others, by knocking a losing streak for the Giants. Since then he has worked often and he has pitched good ball consistently.

WHITE SOX ON EASTERN TOUR PLAYING BOSTON TODAY

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Boston, June 4.—Jim Scott was backed to hurl against the Boston Red Sox this afternoon, when the Chicago Cubs open a four game series with the Boston team today. The Sox won their first place by routing over two games and this lead will be enhanced during the Boston series. In keeping the ladder top the Sox will try to win the majority of games on their eastern tour, and as traveling team the strength of the Sox has not yet been thoroughly tested. "Happy" Felsch, the Milwaukee slugger, is out of the game for another week with a sprained ankle.

Cubs Play Saturday.
Chicago.—The Cubs open a four game series with the New York Giants Saturday, and they played an exhibition game at Grand Rapids Saturday. During their defeat on the road, the Cubs hung onto first place by an eye-lash, but may lose the position today. In the National league, the New York Giants, in last place, are but six games behind the Cubs.

NEW CARDINAL NINE CLASH WITH DELAVAN

Two New Players at First and Short to Make Appearance Against Delavan on Sunday.

Janesville baseball fans will have opportunity of viewing the new infield that the Cardinals will put against the Delavan city team Sunday afternoon in the clash at the Association park diamonds. Butters will be opposed by Quinn and the latter is supposed to be about the class of northern Illinois semi-pro players in pitching, having won three games in three starts this year and buried in one tie game. The Delavan nine has twice met the Geneva team, playing a fourteen inning tie in the first game, without a score and then, walloping the lake squad in their session a week ago. Butters is primed for the visitors and if he is in as good form as shown in the Port Atkinson game, the Cardinals will not have to worry about the heavy artillery of the aliens. A new first baseman will be seen in place of Nehr, who will be shifted to the outfield. Erving, a Milwaukee player of considerable note, will perform at short and Joe Ryan will be back at his old place at third, where he ought to be able to "shoot them" across without stopping because of fear for knocking the first sacker off his pins. Croak, the husky Albany sacker, will be at second and he appears to be a pretty finished ball player and a good stickler. Berger, Nehr, and Chamberlain, will make a corking outfield and all three are good with the stick. Nehr being one of the best batters on the nine. Hall will do the catching.

The diamond will be improved considerably by Sunday by the repaving of the infield and mowing of the "tall and uncut" grass in the outfield.

NORMAL SCHOOLS TO RUN STATE TOURNEY

Annual Basketball Event Will Be Held at Milwaukee in 1916.—Muddle May Be Done Away With.

The State Normal Athletic conference in the annual session at Whitewater on Saturday formulated plans whereby the state high school basketball title scrap will be settled without the usual muddle.

It is planned to have each of the eight normal schools in the state hold sectional tournaments, and open to all high schools in the various districts, and to match the winners in a championship series at the end of the season. This means that the finals will be played in the Milwaukee normal gymnasium in 1916. A team trophy and individual medals will be presented to the victorious teams in both the sectional and final championships.

The conference elected C. P. Schott of Platteville president, J. P. Korneal, Stevens Point, vice president, and E. W. Schrieber, Whitewater, secretary. The action taken by the normal conference means that Lawrence College, at Appleton, will have no more to do with running the official state tournament, and it is believed to have been taken following many protests by high schools. With capable officers chosen and such excellent plans made, the state basketball event next year should be keenly fought, with every team recognized.

Sport Snap Shots MORRIS MILLER

Miss Clara Katherine Haywood of Philadelphia, who is a pupil of Harry Cline, the billiardist, is rated as one of the greatest women players ever developed in an amateur in this country. Under Cline's instruction Miss Haywood has developed into a star player and her instructor believes that she can defeat the average male player. She is particularly adept at the balk line game.

The most successful balk motions in the history of the game were those of Matty Kilroy, the great left hander, Ed Walsh, and Clark Griffith. Billy Campbell, once with the Cincinnati Reds, was in the same class, but did not last long enough to become famous. Kilroy could snap a ball to first base with a wrist motion. To the runner at first he appeared to be throwing to the plate, to the umpire and batter he clearly was throwing to first.

He exhibited much skill as an arbitrator, but will not continue, as the law firm with which he is connected objects strongly to his absence. Eldridge is a young man who is trying to decide between love and duty. He'd rather read a baseball or football guide than any law book ever printed. But the future, for baseball umpires, is not as bright as for the Blackstone boys. Hence sport loses a useful servant.

Discouraged over his quick knock-out at the hands of Frank Morris of Pittsburgh, Bomb Wells has decided to retire from the boxing game and reports say he will join the colors as a private in a Welsh regiment. Several times previously Wells declined to enlist.

There isn't a chance that Kilbane and Richie Mitchell will ever clash for the 132-pound title, as dopesters forecast last winter, for the simple reason that Richie has been forced to turn lightweight. As soon as his hand mends the Milwaukee star intends to set sail for the 133-pounders.

Dan McLeod, former light heavyweight champion wrestler, is still up and doing. Dan is located at Los Angeles, Cal., and is nursing a hope—once a secret one—which has recently burst into public view. Pleasant Smith, present title holder, is at the other end of the hope. McLeod, who desires to make a farewell appearance on the mat, has challenged Smith to a finish match. McLeod was a star when men like Tom Jenkins, Frank Gotch and others were in their prime.

Sir Thomas Lipton, whose yacht Shamrock IV, the challenger for the American cup, is laid up in Brooklyn, does not regard with favor the proposed renewal of trials this summer between the cup defending candidates, Resolute and Vanitie.

Announcement from Sterling, Ill., that Joe Killian has retired from baseball means the passing of one of the most successful of lower class league managers. Killian won three pennants in a row for Oshkosh in the Wisconsin Illinois league. Of course, he had a mighty good man behind him in Owner Kluwin of the club, but still it is some record.

Albert Lloyd of Melbourne is the latest Australian middleweight pugilist to attract attention. He is twenty-one years old, is 5 feet, 9½ inches in height and weighs about 160 pounds.

The Syracuse university football team's trip to the Pacific coast next fall is unique in the history of the gridiron sport. It will be the first time an eastern eleven has scheduled a game with a team in the far west. On Thanksgiving day the Syracuse eleven will play the University of Montana at Missoula, and on Tuesday, November 23, it will line up against Oregon Agricultural college at Portland, Ore.

THE SITUATION.

Today's dispatches announce that President Wilson will remain firm in his stand with Germany on the Lusitania question, and also insist that the submarine warfare upon merchant ships cease. His talk with the German ambassador was evidently more official in the way of informing that official to notify his government concerning the exact temper of the American people rather than listen to any advice from Germany as to what Wilson should answer.

In fact it is barely possible, as intimated by Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, that the German government did not fully understand the temper of the American people. Did not realize that behind the government at Washington in their efforts to maintain peaceful relations with Germany, are the sons and daughters of the Germans of this country, who have expressed their sentiments, regretting the incident that led to the exchange of diplomatic notes, but assuring the government of their support.

As a result Von Bernstorff is sending a special member of his official staff direct to Berlin to acquaint his government with the exact situation. Meanwhile President Wilson continues to pen his formal note which will be ready in a day or two, and fully treat the matter diplomatically.

In the last issue of Leslie's magazine, Theodore S. Woolsey, L. L. D., one of the most eminent authorities on international law, explains in detail the Lusitania incident and its relation to the law. Just at this time it is a valuable addition to the general discussion and his statement is as follows:

"There is, I think, a clear distinction between the Lusitania case and the cases of the two American ships attacked by the Germans, if the reports are accurate the Cushing by airplanes, the Guilford by submarine. The Lusitania was a British merchantman, unarmed, carrying much war material—although this could be positively known to the Germans only by search—carrying also mails and passengers. If captured she was a good prize; if unable to send her under a prize crew to a German port, which was clearly the case, her destruction was legitimate. This destruction should have been inflicted after a due sequence of processes: first, a warning to stop which, if disregarded, authorized a torpedo shot; second, scrutiny of her nationality to make sure that she was enemy's property; third, opportunity given passengers and crew, being non-combatants, to leave the ship. To do otherwise is in violation of immemorial usage, in violation of humanity.

"To sink an enemy's merchant ship without warning is not piracy, as an eminent publicist declares, because piracy involves the idea of robbery on the high seas with an animus furandi aimed at all ships, not at those of a particular nation or nations. It is simply murder. If passengers and crew are subjects of an enemy it is none the less murder, but as war is ready exists, no penalty is possible except reprisals or the punishment of the murderers after a fair trial, if the fortune of war at any time makes this feasible.

"If, on the other hand, neutral subjects are involved, their government must take the penalty for the act, whether pecuniary or personal, into its own hands. But notice that in the case of the Lusitania there is no question of blockade or of contraband. These are primary restraints put upon neutral ships and cargoes. This was an enemy ship subject to destruction under the conditions named. If, owing to the peculiar nature of the submarine, these conditions could not be complied with, such destruction is illegal—a crime against humanity—and must not be attempted. There is then no essential difference between the status of the British and the neutral persons on board the Lusitania, except as regards the manner of exacting reparation for the crime.

"But the German attacks without a warning upon the Cushing by airplanes and the Guilford by submarine, both American ships sailing under their own flag, involve neutral rights as well as the rights of humanity. If they were carrying contraband, which only a proper search could develop, with a hostile destination, the contraband goods are subject to capture, but not the vessel, unless its contraband lading forces more than half its cargo. This also implies search. If they were violating blockade, to legalize capture the blockade must be effective, that is continuous and sufficiently efficient to really prevent access to the enemy's coast line. Notoriously, this is not the case.

"The occasional appearance of a submarine, even the occasional torpedoing of a vessel, is not enough to constitute a legal blockade. Our government has taken this ground. Failure to search for contraband, then, and failure to maintain an effective blockade are fatal flaws in German submarine activity in both these directions. They are violations of our neutral rights. To attack without warning and examination, whether from below or above the sea, is also a violation of humanity. Whatever the facts of loading and destination may be therefore in the cases of the Cushing and the Guilford, the Germans have put themselves in the wrong and must be dealt with.

"And how if they refuse apology and compensation? There are two ways: through indemnity and through punishment. If loss of property and loss of life are to be merely indemnified, a simple way is to seize for the purpose whatever German property we can find, public or private, the latter because its owners may look to their government for reimbursement. The German ships in our ports come under this head. The other, the violent way, is, of course, war. But indemnification, however desirable, is not the only, not the most important, remedy which we should seek. We must have assurance against the repetition of these wrongs. This may be forthcoming if demanded. If not, is it not a fair suggestion that we seek union with the other neutral powers which have likewise suffered even more heavily than ourselves? These are Holland and Norway, Denmark and Sweden, with memories of two armed neutralities. Perhaps a third is indicated to which the United States would be welcome as it was not in 1780. A united demand for the surrender of this criminal policy of sinking neutral ships and their hapless crews on suspicion of one knows not what, might be listened to. If not, then, as the diplomats say, we should take whatever steps our interests demand. For truly the cup of wrath is running over."

The initial attempt to the administration to pass the so-called retrenchment measures, met with success in the assembly Thursday. With but few dissenting votes the measures in question passed and were sent to the senate.

There is only one complaint heard as to Wilson's note to Mexico. It should have been written over a year ago when the American troops were in Vera Cruz and the harbor in control of the American bluejackets. The "watchful waiting" policy proved itself a failure.

On Wednesday Jesse L. Lasky presents on the Paramount Program Rita Jolivet in a picturization of Eleanor M. Ingram's successful novel, "The Unafraid." Miss Jolivet will be remembered as one of the survivors of the ill fated Lusitania. She posed for this picture before starting for Europe and it is considered quite a coincidence that she and Charles Frohman were discussing death after the ship was struck. Miss Jolivet declared she was unafraid and Mr. Frohman replied, "Why fear death in life." Frohman was lost and Rita Jolivet was saved. With her in this picture is House Peters.

OPPOSSUM IS CAUGHT ON BUSINESS STREET

Patrolman Charles Harmon "Arrests" Possum on North Bluff Street Early This Morning.

Early this morning a milkman chanced to see a strange animal sulking along the shadows from the buildings on North Bluff street. In front of the Sheldon tin shop, and whether from fear or hurry it is not known, but he did not stop to investigate. On meeting Patrolman Charles Harmon on the street corner the milk vendor related of his strange find and the policeman, half in doubt and half in curiosity, started toward North Bluff street in search of the animal.

Sure enough there was a dirty gray animal hiding in the corner of the stairway backed up in the most pugnacious attitude. The officer made a pass at the animal with his club and when with a quick feat grab and the tail of a huge opossum and eluded the savage gnashings of the animal. With much trouble, Harmon carried this captive to the station and deposited him in a box where he is at the present time, pretending to be dead.

When a blow is struck at the opossum he will feign death and lay lifeless until the box is covered again. It is an unusual fact to find an opossum as far north as Janesville, as they belong to more southern districts. How the animal came to be in the business district is a mystery. Whether the opossum had wandered into the city from the country district or has lived for some time in the cellars of the buildings could not be ascertained.

As no report was made to the day force, Chief Champion did not know whether to arrest Mr. Oppossum up in the municipal court on the charge of disorderly conduct of keeping too late hours, or attempted burglary.

Ladies free at ball game Sunday.

OBITUARY

William T. Murphy, who arrived in Janesville, Thursday night at 12:35 over the Northwestern road, and was accompanied by his brother, Charles Murphy, and his wife, Van. When they were taken to the Dr. Ryan and Sons Undertaking rooms and will lay in state there until Saturday morning.

Funeral will be at 8:30 o'clock Saturday morning at Ryan's chapel and at nine o'clock at St. Mary's church. Interment will be in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

The deceased was forty-two years of age, single, and has been in the employ of the Chicago fire department for the past nine years. He was born and reared in Janesville, having conducted a livery stable with a Mr. McCue year ago on North Bluff street. His brother Charles resides in Fond du Lac, and is a conductor on the Northwestern road out of that city. The latter is the only surviving member of the Murphy family.

WOMAN'S PAGE

SIDE TALKS

By RUTH K. CAMERON

HOW very differently we all feel about the handicaps which are imposed on us by circumstances and the handicaps we impose on ourselves.

Almost anyone who has the handicap of a deformity, of a dis-honored name, of great poverty, of accident, crippled facilities, or resents it bitterly.

He usually ascribes far more of his failures and unhappinesses to the handicap than are actually due to it.

He thinks that if it were only possible to remove it by human effort he would surely do so.

He is sure he could be entirely happy and content if it were not for that handicap.

And yet all the time he is probably tolerating other handicaps that he has imposed upon himself without complaint and without thinking how much he could accomplish if they didn't hold him back.

For instance, had handwriting been a handicap, a girl who has been continually inconvenienced by it. Her friends cannot read her letters; her professors at college could not read her essays; she took the civil service examination and passed far down in the list because her low rating in handwriting counterbalanced her high rating in other branches. Over and over again her slovenly writing, her maddening habit of making e's and i's and u's and m's and n's all more or less alike has handicapped her.

Does she resent the handicap? No, she doesn't, at least not enough to make the effort necessary to overcome it. Indeed, I have often heard her laugh at it. Would she be as resigned to a handicap imposed from without, if I know her and I think I do, if it were a handicap imposed from within?

The Habit of Tardiness a Handicap From Within.

Again I know a woman whose habit of tardiness has always been a handicap to her. From breakfast to bedtime she is always late, always late to say this habit handicaps her in a hundred ways. Need-

The people who never get anywhere are the people who waste their energy resenting handicaps that outward circumstances have imposed and don't try to remove the handicaps they have placed on themselves.

The people who arrive are the people who ignore the handicaps that cannot be gotten rid of and remove all that can be.

Which are you?

Heart and Home Problems

Letters May Be Addressed To Mrs. Thompson, in Care of The Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am going on seventeen years of age. Am I too young to go with fellows? Is it wrong for a girl to go with different young men?

(2) I went with a fellow all last winter and I thought a lot of him and he seemed to think the same of me. We wrote to one another every week, turning away friends. This spring he quit going with me and quit writing. He said he still comes to see me once in a great while, but he won't come in the house and he never asks for a date. Do you think he cares for me?

(3) How can a girl become attractive to friends? I try to be best I can, but they do not return my friendship. There is one girl who is angry at me and she talks about me to other people. Do you think this is the reason people do not like me?

(4) There is a fellow in my community who is about thirty-eight years old. He seems to try to make love to me. Do you think we could be happy together if we should marry, or is there too much difference in our ages?

(5) Is there any harm in going to a social with a married man if you are staying at his home and his wife doesn't object? CINDERELLA.

(1) You are not old enough to go with just one boy, but you are old enough to have several boy friends. It is all right to have several boy friends if you are of the right age and if you are perfectly proper to let a boy take you home from similar gatherings at other houses. A girl of seventeen should not let a boy call regularly or become serious in his attentions.

(2) He certainly does not care for you.

(3) When talking to a person try to find out what he is particularly interested in and get him to talk on that subject. Show great interest in what he is saying and make as many intelligent replies as possible. The boy will go away thinking that you are a capital girl, one worth knowing and you will have to be widely informed. Personal appearance is one of the chief factors in attracting others. Like to associate with neat, well-dressed people. By well-dressed I do not exactly mean expensively dressed. Good taste works wonders as well as money. Be spirited and ready for wholesome sports. Both girls and boys like girls who are in shape for long walks, tennis, dancing, cards and other games and frolics. Never play too coarse nor rough in any of your best you can, for kindness and the after all the greatest thing. Don't expect immediate returns for what you do. If you keep on forgetting yourself in doing for others you will find that it pays in the end.

The girl can do you no permanent harm.

(4) There is too much difference in your ages. Probably he is only to marry you anyway.

(5) You put yourself in a position to be talked about, which is not desirable when you are trying to make friends.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My husband insists upon spoiling his wife when we are out in a crowd of people and I think it is common. Don't you think it is common? We have been married eight weeks and I think it is time he grew a little less affectionate.

It is not time that he should grow less affectionate. Give him all the love he wants in private, but refuse to make a spectacle of yourself before people. Jealousy is common for married people to spoon in for unmarried, but a great many men refuse to believe this.

Household Hint

THE TABLE.

Pineapple Pie—One large pineapple, one tablespoon butter, two cups sugar, two tablespoons cornstarch, one-half cup water, five eggs. Cut pineapple in small pieces and put sugar on it; let stand two hours to drain out the juice. Drain off juice, add water to it and mix well. Add butter and cornstarch and when it thickens add the eggs, beaten well. Add cut-up pineapple and cook only about five minutes. Bake in two crusts about half an hour. This makes two good pies, and is delicious.

Strawberry Shortcake—Cream one tablespoon butter with cup of sugar, add one well beaten egg, one cup milk, two cups flour mixed with two teaspoons baking powder. Stir until all lumps are out. Then add flavor. This will make two pies. Bake in two crusts about half an hour. This makes two good pies, and is delicious.

Strawberry Shortcake (very easily made and very good)—Take yolk of one egg, mix with three tablespoons sugar and eggs with just enough milk or water to make cake batter. You will find this a very good shortcake of any kind of fruit. The white of the egg is used for the top.

CANNING AND PRESERVING.

Strawberry-Pineapple Marmalade—Two quarts strawberries, two oranges, one pineapple, crush berries slightly, grate rind of oranges and squeeze out juice. Grind pineapple in grinder, then add 3 1/2 pints sugar. Cook down thick and put in jelly tumblers. This makes about eight glasses.

Blossom Wine—One quart blossoms, one lemon sliced thin, four pounds of white sugar, one gallon boiling water; when it is lukewarm add one cake yeast and white of an egg beaten stiff. Cover with blanket or something to keep in the steam, and let stand three days. Then strain through cheesecloth and put in bottles or jugs to ferment. Keep fermenting with water as it evaporates, and do not cork as long as it ferments. This will also do for dandelion or clover blossom wine. Also add juice of an orange.

Pineapple Delight—Mix one pint shredded pineapple, one pint crushed strawberries and two pints granulated sugar. Boil fifteen minutes. Pour into jelly glasses.

Prune Conserve—Mix one quart prunes (soaked twenty-four hours and seeded), one pound seeded raisins, two cups sugar and two pints sugar. Cook half hour. Remove from stove and stir in one pound English walnut meats. Pour into pint cans and seal.

Mold on Jelly—If the paper which is put over jelly is dipped in white of an egg it will, when dry, be tight and firm, and keep the fruit taintly than if it is dipped in alcohol or brandy. The paper which is laid next the fruit is meant not to be washed, which is tied or pasted over the glass.

To Pack Canned Goods—Pack canned goods in sawdust. This material will certainly help to keep the cans cool in summer and prevent freezing in winter.

CLOSE PACKING BEST.

Most people are afraid of crushing their clothes by packing them tightly. Yet this is the secret of successful packing. If they are allowed room to slide and slip, they will come forth wrinkled and mussed, whereas, if they are firmly held in place in a trunk which is not too large for its contents, you will get far better results.

BREAD CRUMBS.

Crumbs that are to be kept for any time should be put in glass jars. Jars with the tight screw tops used for preserves are excellent for the purpose. The crumbs will keep better if the bread is first dried in the stove, then grated and bottled when entirely cold. All scented dishes include crumbs in the mixture and a dry dust of them on top. With the addition of the crumbs, and proper seasoning, all fragments of fresh meat, fish and poultry may be used up.

GOOD OLD NEW YORK

PLACE FOR FASHION

Fashion Writer Relates of Comparison Between Fashions of Foreign Country and Yankee Land.

(By Margaret Mason.)

London, June 4.—You are right the Parisians have a wonderful touch when it comes to sartorial confections and also when it comes to Americans. They certainly touch them both most artistically and successfully.

A Londoner has an excellent place to lay in a good supply of substantial like woolen lingerie or cashmere hosiery but on what a joy it is to return to that Mecca of the Mode New York and fall all over yourself trying to snap up still the beautiful bargains on Broadway and Fifth Avenue.

Believe me if you are on one side of Fifth Avenue you don't have to come across to see more lovely and adorable frocks and trills and fashions than ever come across the sea. They are just thick on all sides.

This is true, of course, of all the big American cities Chicago, Philadelphia, San Francisco, St. Louis and Kansas City. And talk about smart and sophisticated females you see more in that city than in any American city that's big as a town than you can glimpse in London in a week.

In fact the smart female is an unknown quantity in England unless she be an American or a Parisian on tour.

The general chic of the Parisians is an undeniable fact and raving beauties are often beauty spotted in their midst but surely it is more than a mother citing the good points of her first born. Remember after all I'm not touting for New York alone.

Just to prove that New York can well afford to take a style tip from some of her American sister cities there is the case of the chic little lady from Buffalo. She breezed into Little Old New York one day last week in a frock that was not only the latest word in sartorial perfection it was positively the last cry. Her costume, which was home grown right in Buffalo, was of black and white pin check sash silk. The tiny short straight jacket was buttoned up the front with bullet shaped buttons of gunmetal pearl. The low V shaped neck was filled in a trifle with dresden glass and a ruche of net. The long sleeves and pleated ruffles of the silk edged the short two tiered skirt, the upper tier of which was rendered buoyant with a bit of feather boning in the hem. A crinoline, a grey kid belt finished the jacket, a tiny straw turban of grey finished her one extremity and grey silk hose and grey kid low shoes laced on the sides finished the other white gloves of the grey, stitched in black, proved themselves two good things to have on hand.

No one was more surprised than herself the target of all eyes, and many audible and awed remarks as she tripped up the Avenue. The supposedly class New Yorkers eyes her like a bunch of rubes in a jaytown stare at the bankers daughter just back from a finishing school in the East.

Oh yes; New York has a lot to learn when it comes to a fashionable finishing but she no longer has to go abroad for the education. She can pick up a post graduate course in matters sartorial just any little day in any little city in the U. S. A.

"HEN PARTIES" DECREASE IN ENGLAND SINCE WAR.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, June 4.—War has led to a noticeable increase in social comradeship among English women and has broken down the former prejudice against what are popularly and contemptuously known as "hen parties."

Numerous clubs have sprung up, such as the Lady Workers' Club for lonely women earning moderate salaries. This club keeps open from 4 to 9 p. m. on work days and from 2 to 9 p. m. on Saturdays and Sundays. Its objects are purely the cultivation of friendship, without bridge or any kind of propaganda.

CHICAGO AROUSED BY WOMAN'S DEATH

Anna Johnson.

The death last week in a Chicago "horror parlor" of Anna Johnson has aroused the city against the swarms of doctors and midwives who aid unfortunate young girls in self-mutilating abortions, often with fatal results. The coroner's jury which investigated Anna Johnson's death reached the conclusion that the girl abortion victim was shot and a "suicide" evolved when it became apparent that the criminal operation which was to put her out of her trouble would result in her death.

Why not slip on your wraps and go with me for the medicine? A little air will do you good," said the doctor to Olive, as he passed through the living room.

"I have been shut in a long time for a person who takes fresh air instead of medicine. You doctors would fare poorly, if you were as robust as I am," laughed Olive, pinning on her hat.

The air was crisp and fine after the rain. The ride was lengthened by a little spin about town before they reached the drug store.

"You were gone but a few minutes," said Nell as Olive came into the bedroom with the medicine.

Timely Tips for the Housewife

WHAT TO DO WITH SOUR CREAM.

Prepared for The Gazette by Nellie Maxwell, Department of Farmers' Institutes, of the University of Wisconsin.

The question is often asked by women living in dairy districts, "What can be done with sour cream, how to use it?"

It almost seems like asking what can be done with money for cream is such a valuable food and may be used in so many appetizing ways that it should never be wasted.

The idea with most women is not to tell us some new ways of using it profitably. Many of us have used sour cream for griddle cakes, biscuits, puddings, cakes, cookies, dressings, meat sauces, salad dressings, freezing it with fruit juices have made most delightful ice cream. And did you ever use sour cream in place of milk in preparing a white sauce for codfish? If not you have a treat in store. Do not cook the cream too long to allow it to curdle the mixture.

But you ask for recipes and here are just a few:

Sour Cream Cookies.—Add a cup of sugar and a cup of molasses to two cups of rich sour cream, cream two well beaten eggs, a teaspoonful of soda and one of baking powder, a tablespoonful of ginger, a dash of cinnamon and cloves and enough flour to roll. Let stand on ice to chill before rolling out.

Chocolate Cake.—Take a cupful of brown sugar, add a half cup of sour cream, a half teaspoonful of soda, one egg well beaten, a sup and a half of flour sifted with a teaspoon of baking powder. Dissolve two squares of chocolate in half cup of boiling water and add to the cake the last thing. Flavor with vanilla and bake in two layers.

Cabbage Salad.—Shred cabbage very fine and plunge into cold water to crisp. Drain and dress with sour cream, sugar, salt and if not quite sour enough a very little vinegar may be added. This is a salad which can be enjoyed at any meal with almost any combination of foods.

Sour cream when mixed with fruit juices and sweetened will freeze smooth and velvety. Orange juice with sour cream and sugar to sweeten is a combination especially tasty and delicious. Mix and freeze juice or peach juice are others. Lemon is such an acid, and the sour cream also an acid that the result is not so good unless a sour frozen dish is desired.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Now the baby will be all right when he wakes up, if we can prevent it," said the doctor in a relieved tone. "I will leave some medicine, but do not rouse him to give anything. This sleep is his salvation."

After searching in his case he remarked: "I find I have none of the medicine I will drive down in my car and bring it back."

"Oh, thank you doctor. We could go after it if you are busy," replied Dick, but he looked relieved when the doctor insisted on bringing it, for the long vigil of the night before had you get out for a little walk this afternoon? It would do you worlds of good."

Olive looked so strong, so glowingly healthy as Nell looked at her that she could not repress a little envious sigh. "I really am too tired to stir. Now the strain is over, I find I haven't any strength left."

"Poor girl, you had not much to start with," said Olive, stroking her hair. "I am going to take care of the little man tonight, and now that you are no longer so anxious you can sleep."

"It's so good of you," Nell closed her eyes wearily. "A few days later Olive insisted that Nell go for the mail. "You must get some air and I will watch the baby and give him his medicine."

Nell put on her wraps. "I'm looking for a letter from mother. I sent a telegram as soon as the crisis was over and she would write at once."

2 Drops of "GETS-IT," Out Comes the Corn!

It's the World's Wonder; Never Fails.
You'll make good eyes at your feet
after you use "GETS-IT." It's the only place where those pesky corns go to, just as smooth as your cheek.

How Wide is a "GETS-IT" Smile? Well, a Good Deal Over 2 Feet!

There's no corn or callus among the millions of feet in the world that "GETS-IT."
It will not remove them; it escapes
"GETS-IT" is the new way, the simple common-sense, sure way, it does away with great ointments, salves, pads, cotton rings, harnesses, knives, scissors, razors, files, and the limping and the painful pincers that so many corn-sufferers people. All you do is put 2 drops of "GETS-IT" on the corn, it shrivels up—and goes by. Nothing else in the world like "GETS-IT." Millions are using it. There's no pain, no trouble, no changing shoes because of corns.

MILWAUKEE SUFFERER TRIED JUST ONE DOSE

Ben Behling Gave Up Hope Before He Found Remedy—Happy Now.

Ben F. Behling of 959 Louis avenue, Milwaukee, was a sufferer from maladies of the stomach and digestive tract for a long time. He gave up hope.

At last he discovered Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. He took a dose just to try it.
The results were remarkable.

He wrote:
"I was in such bad condition that I had given up hope of ever getting well again. I sent to you for one dose of your remedy and took it the same day you sent it. It has worked wonderfully. I took five more bottles, one each week. I am now a new man again. I thank you a thousand times for the good you did me."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas
in the stomach and around the heart.
Get one bottle of your druggist now
and try it on an absolute guarantee.
If not satisfactory money will be returned.

AN EASY WAY TO GET FAT AND BE STRONG

The trouble with most thin folks who wish to gain weight is that they insist on drugging their stomach or stuffing it with greasy foods; rubbing on useless "flesh creams" or following some foolish physical culture stunt, while the real cause of thinness goes untouched. You cannot get fat until your digestive tract assimilates
the food you eat.

Thanks to a remarkable new scientific discovery, it is now possible to combine into simple form the very elements needed by the digestive organs to help them convert food into rich, fat-laden blood. This masterwork of modern chemistry is called Sargol and has been termed the greatest of flesh-builders. Sargol aims through its re-generative, reconstructive powers to coax the stomach and intestines to literally soak up the fat-forming elements of your food and pass them into the blood, where they are carried to every starved, broken-down cell and tissue of your body.
You can readily picture the result:
when this amazing transformation has taken place and you notice how your cheeks fill out, hollows about your neck, shoulders and bust disappear and you take on from 10 to 20 pounds of solid, healthy flesh. Sargol is absolutely harmless, inexpensive, efficient. Your druggist has it and will refund your money if you are not satisfied, as per the guarantee found in every package.

Caution:—While Sargol has given excellent results in overcoming nervous dyspepsia and general stomach troubles it should not be taken by those who do not wish to gain ten pounds or more. Advertisement.

"No, I don't want your paper; come with me to your paying teller and get me the money. Make what explanation you see fit; but remember—if he hesitates, you die."

They left the private office together, the younger man a short half-step in the rear, with his pistol-bearing hand thrust under his coat. The president did not despair. In the public lobby there would be eyes to see, and perhaps some that would understand. Mr.
Galbraith took a firmer hold upon his self-possession and trusted that some happy chance might yet intervene to save him.

But chance did not intervene. There was a goodly number of customers in the public space, but not one of the half-dozen or more who nodded to the president or passed the time of day with him saw the eye-appeal which was the only one he dared to make.
On the short walk around to the paying teller's window, the robber kept even step with his victim, and try as he would, Andrew Galbraith could not summon the courage to forget the pistol muzzle menacing him in its coat-covered ambush.

At the paying wicket there was only one customer, instead of the group the president had hoped to find;
a sweet-faced young woman in a modest traveling hat and a gray coat. She was getting a draft cashed, and when she saw them she would have stood aside. It was the robber who anticipated her intention and forbade it with a courteous gesture; whereas she turned again to the window to conclude her small transaction with the teller.

The few moments which followed were terribly trying ones for the gray-haired president of the Bayou State Security. None the less, his brain was busy with the chances of possibilities. Failing all else, he was determined to give the teller a warning signal, come what might. It was a duty owed to society no less than to the bank and to himself. But on the plane of resolution, at the instant
when, with the robber at his elbow, he stopped to the window and presented the check, Andrew Galbraith felt the gentle pressure of the pistol muzzle against his side; nay, more—he fancied he could feel the cold chill of the metal strike through and through him.

So it came about that the fine resolution had quite evaporated when he said, with what composure there was in him: "You'll please give me currency for that Johnson."

The teller glanced at the check and then at his superior; not too inquisitively, since it was not his business to question the president's commands.

"How will you have it?" he asked;
and it was the stranger at Mr. Galbraith's elbow who answered.
"One thousand in fives, tens and twenties, loose—if you please; the re-

never think of doing."

On the strength of that decision he ventured to order a third cup of coffee, and before it had cooled he had outlined a plan, basing it upon a cross-questioning of the Gascon waiter.
There had been but one man concerned in the robbery, and the sidewalk gossip was beginning to describe him with discomforting accuracy.

Griswold paid his score and went out boldly and with studied nonchalance. He reasoned that, notwithstanding the growing accuracy of the street report, he was still in no immediate danger so long as he remained in such close proximity to the bank.
It was safe to assume that this was one of the things the professional "strong-arm man" would not do. But it was also evident that he must speedily lose his identity if he hoped to escape; and the lost identity must leave no clue to itself.

Griswold smiled when he remembered how, in fiction of the felon-catching sort, and in real life, for that matter, the law-breaker always did leave a clue for the pursuers. Thereupon arose a determination to demonstrate practically that it was quite as possible to create an inerrant fugitive as to conceive an infallible detective.

Joining the passers-by on the sidewalk, he made his way leisurely to Canal street, and thence diagonally through the old French quarter toward the French market. In a narrow alley giving upon the levee he finally found what he was looking for; a dingy sailor's barber's shop. The barber was a negro, fat, unctuous and sleepy looking, and he was alone.

"Yes, sah; shave, boss?" asked the negro, bowing and scraping a foot
when Griswold entered.

"No; a hair cut." The customer produced a silver half-dollar. "Go somewhere and get me a cigar to smoke while you are doing it. Get a good one, if you have to go to Canal street," he added, climbing into the rickety chair.

The fat negro shuffled out, scenting tips. The moment he was out of sight Griswold took up the scissors and began to hack awkwardly at his beard and mustache; awkwardly, but swiftly and with well-considered purpose. The result was a fairly complete metamorphosis easily wrought.
In place of the trim beard and curling mustache there was a rough stubble, stiff and uneven, like that on the face of a man who had neglected to shave for a week or two.

"There, I think that will answer,"
he told himself, standing back before the cracked looking-glass to get the general effect. "And it is decently original. The professional crackman would probably have shaved, whereupon the first amateur detective he met would reconstruct the beard on the sunburned lines. Now for a pawn-broker; and the more avaricious he happens to be, the better he will serve the purpose."

He went to the door and looked up and down the alley. The negro was not yet in sight, and Griswold walked rapidly away in the direction opposite to that taken by the obliging barber.

A pawnbroker's shop of the kind required was not far to seek in that locality, and when it was found, Griswold drove a hard bargain with the Portuguese Jew behind the counter.

The pledge he offered was the suit he was wearing, and the bargaining concluded in an exchange of the still serviceable business suit for a pair of butternut trousers, a second-hand coat too short in the sleeves, a flannel shirt, a cap, and a red handkerchief; the smallness of which he deplored pitiously before he would consent to accept it.

The effect of the haggling was exactly what Griswold had prefigured.
The Portuguese, most suspicious of his tribe, suspecting everything but the truth, fairly accused his customer of having stolen the pledge. And when Griswold departed without denying the charge, suspicion became conviction, and he pledged clothing, which might otherwise have given the police the needed clue, was carefully hidden away against a time when the Jew's apprehensions should be quieted.

Having thus disguised himself, Griswold made the transformation artificially complete by walking a few squares in the dust of a loaded cotton float on the levee. Then he made a tramp's bundle of the manuscript of the moribund book, the pistol, and the money in the red handkerchief;
and having surveyed himself with some satisfaction in the bar mirror of a riverside pot-house, a daring impulse to test his disguise by going back to the restaurant where he had breakfasted seized and bore him uptown.

The experiment was an unqualified success. The proprietor of the bank-neighboring cafe not only failed to recognize him; he was driven forth with reviling in idiomatic French and broken English.

"Bete! Go back on de levee where you belong to go. I'll been kipping dis cafe for zentlemen! Scelerat! Go!"
Griswold went out, smiling between his teeth.

"That settles the question of identification and present safety," he assured himself exultantly. Then: "I believe I could walk into the Bayou State Security and not be recognized."

As before, the daring impulse was irresistible, and he gave place to it on the spur of the moment. Fouling a five-dollar bill in the mud of the gutter, he went boldly into the bank and asked the paying teller to give him silver for it. The teller sniffed at the money, scowled at the man, and turned back to his cash book without a word.
Griswold's smile grew to an inward laugh when he reached the street.

"The dragon may have teeth and claws, but it can neither see nor smell," he said, contemptuously, turning his steps riverward again. "Now I have only to choose my route and go in peace. How and where are the only remaining questions to be answered."

Dinner Stories

At the close of the forenoon session of a ministerial conference in Philadelphia, in announcing the opening subject for the afternoon, the presiding officer said:

"Elder Jones will present a paper on 'The Devil.' Then he added earnestly, 'Please be prompt in attendance, for Brother Jones has a carefully prepared paper, and is full of his subject.'"

A young business man, who has been married but a short time, was greeted by his wife one evening just before dinner with the joyful announcement that she had that very afternoon received her diploma from the cooking school at which she had been an assiduous student for some time.

"And I've prepared the whole dinner tonight!" she added gayly.
When they were seated at the table, and the young man was endeavoring to masticate a particularly tough piece of one of the new dishes,
his wife suddenly said:
"I took special pains with the dish you are eating. Guess what it is."

"Well, I really don't know," he replied uncertainly. "Is it the diploma?"

"You big mutt," said the batter, as the umpire called the third strike,
"that was a foot outside. What's the matter with your eyes?"

"Nothing at all," replied the carbinetor in chilling tones. "I can see from here to the clubhouse, and if I don't see you over there in five minutes it'll cost you fifty dollars."

Charles Dillingham, ordered to hurry to New York once when he was a subordinate to Charles Frohman, the late theatrical producer, sent this telegraph message:
"Washout on line; will report as soon as possible."

Mr. Frohman promptly sent the following reply:
"Never mind your wash; buy a new shirt and come along at once."

STEEL TRUST NOT TO BE DISSOLVED

Chas. M. Schwab, Andrew Carnegie, Henry C. Frick, James Gayley, William H. Moore, J. H. Moore, Edmund C. Converse, Percival Roberts, Jr., Daniel G. Ried, Norman B. Ream, John D. Rockefeller, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., F. A. B. Widener and William B. Patterson, directors of the Steel Corporation, together with certain companies, known as the James J. Hill interests, and Louis V. Bell, James N. Hill, Walter J. Hill, Edward T. Nichols, J. H. Gruber, who were sued as trustees of the Hill companies.

In brief the general charge against the defendants was that some of the companies in themselves, were combinations in restraint of trade and that the creation of the Steel Corporation, which took in the steel and certain other companies named in the suit, was "an attempt to monopolize and a monopolization" in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

The Hill ore companies were involved in the suit by reason of the fact that the Steel Corporation leased the ore deposits held by the ore companies, the government alleging that this lease gave the corporation a monopoly of the ore supply of the United States. This lease was cancelled after the suit was filed.

The government's complaint stated that the Federal Steel company, Carnegie company of New Jersey, American Steel & Wire company of New Jersey, National Tube company, National Steel company, American Tin Plate company, American Sheet Steel company, and American Sheet Steel company were each a combination of companies or concerns in restraint of trade; that the companies were jointly and severally liable for the same; that at the time the United States Steel Corporation was formed the Carnegie, Federal and National were in active competition with each other; that several of the companies were preparing to still further increase their capacity to compete by establishing themselves along new lines of manufacture and that for various reasons and for the general purpose of suppressing competition and controlling trade and commerce the United States Steel Corporation was formed by the directors named in the suit, all of whom, except the Rockefellers, had been variously connected with one or more of the companies.

The government also stated that the Steel Corporation's capitalization aggregated $1,402,346,817; that this capitalization was not less than $800,000,000 in excess of the value of the properties owned by the corporation; that the properties owned by the corporation were not commensurate with its actual capital, nor were they entirely legitimate fruits of the earning capacity of the properties acquired; that the corporation had been created by the result of power exerted over trade by such a vast combination.

It was further charged by the government that many millions of dollars were issued for more promotion and underwriting, the petition stating that Morgan & Co., and the syndicate it represented received $25,000,000 in cash and their expenses, services, and risks, and $129,998,768 of stock of the corporation.

The Steel Corporation acquired works, the petition stated, with an annual capacity ranging from about 60 to 82 per cent. of the country's production, with the exception of pig iron, spiegel and ferro which was 43.2 per cent.

The petition also charged that subsequent to the formation of the corporation numerous companies were absorbed to suppress competition, including the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company, which was acquired during the money panic of 1907.

By acquisition from the Rockefellers of the Lake Superior Consolidated Iron Mines and allied transportation companies for more than $56,000,000; the leasing of the Hill ore deposits and the absorption of the Tennessee company with its large ore holdings, the government charged, the steel corporation achieved a commanding position over its competitors in the matter of ore ownership and transportation, and that through the acquisition of the H. C. Frick Coke company, it controlled large areas of the best coking coal lands in western Pennsylvania.

The petition further said: "It controls over 130 companies. From the time of its organization down to near the time of the filing of the petition, it, by the participation of various of its subsidiaries in unlawful pools, agreements, associations, meetings, and undertakings, and from time to time and over long periods of time, helped to control and maintain prices of various steel products artificially, thereby subjecting the public to unlawful tribute."

Through interlocking directorates it achieved and has maintained power to exercise vast influence over the commercial and financial affairs of the country and thereby advance its interests to the detriment of its competitors. Thirteen of its directors were variously directors in trust companies, banks, railroad companies and other large consumers of steel products."

The government alleged that the corporation as well as the formation of several of its subsidiaries were in contravention of the law and urged that several of them be dissolved, placed under separate control, with no stockholders in common, and with the result that no person or company should control works whose production exceeds a percentage to be fixed by the court of the country's entire production. The maximum production suggested was 10 per cent.

Separation both from the corporation and from each other of its ore-carrying railroads and the divorce of the Tennessee Coal and Iron company were included in the requests.

The government also asked that Andrew Carnegie be adjudged a party to "the unlawful combination" and to rule that he "took the bonds of the corporation with all the infirmities attaching to such participation, so far as possible he made to the other stock holders."

Only one of the three judges who were on the bench when the suit was filed figured in the decision. Judge William M. Lanning having died and Judge George Gray having retired from judicial life. When the case came up for final argument in Philadelphia in October 1914, it was heard by Judges Buffington, McPherson, who succeeded Judge Lanning, Woolsey, appointed in Judge Gray's place, and Hunt, who was called in to sit on the case. The arguments consumed eight days.

A Palace or a Hovel

By REV. WILLIAM WALLACE KETCHUM
Director of the Practical Work Course
Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—For other foundation can no man lay than that which is laid, which is Jesus Christ. But if any man buildeth on the foundation gold, silver, costly stones, wood, hay, stubble; each man's work shall be made manifest; for the day shall declare it, because it is revealed in fire; and the fire itself shall prove each man's work of what sort it is. If any man's work shall abide which he built thereon, he shall receive a reward. If any man's work shall be burned, he shall suffer loss; but he himself shall be saved; yet so as through fire.—I Cor. 3:12-15 (A. V.)

Two workmen are building separate structures. One is a palace of costly stones, and the other is a hovel of cheap materials.

fire breaks out. It sweeps up one street and down another, licking up the buildings that lie in its path, and finally envelopes the palace and the hovel. When the fire ceases, not a vestige of the hovel remains. The flames have wiped out the structure built of wood, hay and stubble; but the palace stands. The marble in it gleams the brighter and the gold and silver shine the more resplendently. The fire has proved each man's work of what sort it is. The workman whose structure stood the test receives his reward; while the other, whose hovel was swept away, suffers loss, he himself being saved, yet so as by fire. Such is the picture presented by the text. What are some of its lessons?

The Only Foundation.
There is only one foundation upon which a man can build a superstructure of works. That foundation is Jesus Christ. This is a simple, elemental truth, but one which needs a deal of emphasis in these days, for many have not yet discovered that the divine order in grace is the same order which holds in the putting up of a building—the foundation first, then the superstructure. Salvation first, then works; and not works first and then salvation. "For by grace have ye been saved through faith; and that not of yourselves, it is the gift of God; not of works, that no man should glory" (Eph. 2:8, 9, R. V.).

Some years ago at Catawissa, Pa., after the destruction of a bridge, the contractor upon removing the first pier, prior to the building of a new one, discovered that underneath there was no foundation. The pier simply rested upon the bed of the river, and when a heavy flood came the entire structure was washed away. Yet, how many there are who are building a superstructure of works without the real foundation, Jesus Christ!

We need to take heed how we build thereon. For it is possible to build on the only foundation a palace or a hovel.

This is a truth which concerns the saved and not the unsaved. It is not a matter of salvation, but of service. Between salvation and service there is a wide difference. Salvation is a work of God for us and in us and is all of grace. Service is work which those who are saved render unto God, and for which they shall receive a reward, or shall suffer loss.

The Testing Day.
A testing day is coming when the character of our work, as Christians, shall be made manifest.

"The day shall declare it." Not a day of judgment for our sins, which were judged in Jesus Christ on the cross; but a day when our work shall be made manifest. The day when the Lord comes, "who will bring to light the hidden things of darkness, and make manifest the counsels of the hearts" (1 Cor. 4:5). Then the fire itself shall prove each man's work of what sort it is. Not literal fire, but the holy, consuming energy of the Lord himself, for "Our God is a consuming fire."

If we have built only a hovel, we shall suffer loss, irretrievable loss, but we shall be saved, yet so as by fire.

Must I go, and empty-handed?
Must I meet my Savior not?

Indeed not, for we may build a palace instead of a hovel, and be not only saved but rewarded for our work.

That each man may in that day have his praise from God (1 Cor. 4:5), let us, as Christians, in our work heed three simple rules:

First, a right purpose: the glory of God (1 Cor. 14:2).
Second, a right plan: the word of God (II Tim. 3:16-17).
Third, a right motive: the constraining love of Christ (II Cor. 5:14).
Which is it to be, a palace or a hovel?

DAIRY THE DAIRY

BREEDING OF DAIRY CATTLE

Community Plan Has Many Advantages—Stimulates Friendly Rivalry Among Dairymen.

(By JAMES PHILAN of New York in Kimball's Dairyman.)

Where two or more men start to breed the same kind of dairy cattle in the same neighborhood, I feel sure that if they are men that can get together, they will find it to their advantage to do so. In the case of small herds the cost of a good bull may seem quite an item. If two or more men buy a bull together, they may be able to get a better bull than either would own individually and still have money to buy females.

Fine Herd of Dairy Cows.

There are other advantages, one of which is that the more daughters a bull may have the better he may be judged as a sire. In the case of men who are doing official test work this has considerable advertising value.

Another advantage is that when different neighbors watch the growth of their neighbors' calves and young stock they will try not to let the other fellow's stock get the start of theirs. This will result in better growth and better developed cattle.

To show that I practice what I preach I will say I have only one cow in my herd that was sired by a bull owned exclusively by myself. At present I have a breeding interest in three different bulls that I have used in the last year. This would seem to indicate that I intend to co-operate with my neighbors.

I believe that the greatest advantage of community breeding will result from friendly rivalry in the growing and development of the stock, and then from good team work in the selling of the same.

USE FOR A HAND SEPARATOR

Less Work Necessary in Handling Milk With Device Than Without—Machine Saves Waste.

A hand separator saves all waste of butterfat. What is the use of feeding cows good corn, hay and other stuff that costs money and then allowing the product to go to waste? Less work is necessary to handle milk with the separator than without, because there are fewer utensils to be used and the skim milk may be fed to the pigs and calves and chickens at once, and does not have to be handled again.

Forty or fifty dollars will buy a good separator, big enough for a herd of four or five cows, and it will save its cost the first year. If properly cared for, a separator is good for ten years.

The cream from a separator will bring more money because it is uniform in richness, and is sweeter because, as it is separated while the milk is warm and fresh, it does not absorb odors as it would if left standing around.

The separator saves hauling milk to the creamery and then hauling the skim milk back to the farm. Then skim milk hauled any considerable distance becomes cold and sometimes dirty and tainted and not fit to feed.

If a farmer has ten or more cows he will require a larger separator—one that will handle say 150 pounds of milk in about fifteen minutes, and he then should have a small gasoline engine to do the work. It is quicker and cheaper than hand power.

that by moving the stop, milk may be poured without difficulty. When closed, the milk is kept almost airtight.

Maintain Cow's Efficiency.
Each cow in the dairyman's herd is a plant that makes the most profit when running at its highest efficiency.

To maintain the maximum efficiency in each cow is a large part of the dairyman's business.

Humanity's Responsibility.
To resist the tyranny of self; to recognize the law of duty; to maintain the supremacy of the higher over the lower parts of our nature—this is our responsibility for life and its gifts.

FRECKLES

Now is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as the prescription ointment—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of ointment—double strength—from Badger Drug Store, or any druggist and apply a little of it at night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength ointment as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

The British

(By the House of Kuppenheimer)

FOR those alert men who make a point of being well dressed, yet always keep on the practical side of the extremes of fashions, we recommend the BRITISH.

A most attractive, three button, soft roll sack, that breeds confidence in the man who wears it and in the men who made it.

All men are young in these stirring days, and for any man in active life, right clothes are an asset and an inspiration.

If the BRITISH model is to your liking you can have it in solid blues, browns and neat gray mixtures. It comes in Tweeds, Cheviots, Worsteds, Serges, Flannels and Homespuns—Glen Urquharts with clear overplaid, shepherd checks, gun club checks, hair-line stripes, mixes and solid colors—in short, almost every approved suiting which has come from the looms this season.

COMPETITION UNFAIR

Stockholders of Rail Lines Not Protected by State Through Hit and Miss System.

Madison, Wis., June 4.—Representatives of the principal street railway companies in Wisconsin pleaded for state regulation of jitneys at a joint hearing before the senate transportation committee yesterday afternoon. Unless such control comes and the jitneys are compelled to bear their share of the public burden, they asserted, the street railway companies will face bankruptcy. At best it will create a strong argument for higher street car fares to prevent further losses. Each company reported large losses this spring, due in part to jitney competition.

The electric railway side was presented by James D. Shaw, Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company; M. E. Rosenberry, for the Wisconsin Electrical association, comprising all the street railways in the state outside Milwaukee; W. R. Foley, for the Duluth Street Railway company, which operates the Superior system; P. W. Walker, president of the Milwaukee-Northern Electric railway; George H. Gordon, for the La Crosse Street Railway company; E. R. Bowler, of the Sheboygan Railway and Electric company; Mr. Ellis of the Appleton-Neenah-Kaukauna Interurban company; F. J. Trudell, of the Marinette-Manitowish traction interests; General Manager Byiles of the Beloit Traction company; and A. T. Van Scoy, representing the Milwaukee Merchants' and Manufacturers' association.

The jitneys were defended by F. S. Hunt of the Milwaukee City club; J. E. Lehr, for the International Association of Jitney Operators; and others. "The jitney is the fair weather, short haul conveyance," said Attorney Shaw. "In good weather it picks off the profitable short haul business. It is not required to furnish dependable service. It comes and goes when it pleases. It is immune from taxes. It leaves the street railway lines to perform their obligations to the public imposed by regulation. These obligations compel the street railways to continue carrying an enormous tax burden from which the jitney bus is exempt, and to continue the yearly expenditure of large sums of money for the laying and maintenance of pavements which the street railways do not use because they run on their own roadway of steel but which obligations have survived the horse car days when the pavements between the tracks of the street railways were considerably used by the horses and trucks of the car companies."

Where the street railway company in Milwaukee pays to the public over a half million dollars a year, said Mr. Shaw, the jitneys pay less than $20,000. Where the street cars must give service in all kinds of weather, the jitneys may quit when the elements are unfavorable. If one class of transportation is regulated, he insisted, others should be. He also favored the bonding feature for jitneys.

Mr. Rosenberry said that investors have bought bonds of Wisconsin street railways under the assumption that under state regulations they may earn a reasonable rate of return. He quoted from Justice Barnes' decision last Tuesday in the Superior fare case to prove that if such return is not earned electric railways are justified in asking for increased rates. Mr. Rosenberry said jitneys are just as much common carriers as street cars and thus amenable to state control. He said the zone fare system must come in this state instead of the straight fare unless this control is extended to the jitneys.

Mr. Foley stated that Superior now has sixty jitney buses, that the traction company there has a constantly decreasing surplus, that the gross receipts were reduced over 21 per cent last month over May, 1914, which was equivalent to saying that in eight and one-half months the jitney competition will wipe out all the company's earnings above operating expenses. He added, however, that times have been bad, which accounted in part for the revenue decrease. Mr. Foley said that in Superior and Duluth the company is losing between $760 and $1,000 per day. Unlike the jitney, the street cars cannot be stopped when they begin to lose money, for they have a heavy property investment and franchises to safeguard, and serious public rights are involved.

President Walker also favored control of jitneys by the railroad commission. They should bear their share of the public burden, he said. It was to the public interest, he said, that the street railways be not crippled.

Attorney Gordon said that if jitneys under state regulation can do the business of transportation better than street railways, the latter might as well go out of business. The question of taxation, personal injuries, and morals should all be considered. Mr. Van Scoy referred to a recent Milwaukee case where a jitney was used to encourage juvenile delinquency. He said extra policemen, involving additional public expense, are required to regulate jitney traffic, and that reckless drivers cause women operators of automobiles to be afraid to drive down town. Attorney Bowler said it will be a calamity if the street railway companies are not left on an earning basis. With the state committed to a policy of utility regulation, he saw no reason why jitneys should not be under state control along with street railway companies. Mr. Ellis of the Neenah line said his company had lost 22 per cent last month over the same month a year ago.

F. J. Trudell said: "If we are going to be driven out of business, we want to be driven out on a reasonable basis. It is a question of fair play."

Mr. Hunt of the City club reviewed the public advantages of jitneys. Where an hour used to be charged, now an auto can give a ride for a nickel. He said that a zone system of charging on street cars would enable street railway companies to adjust fares to compete with jitneys. The buses were becoming an article of convenience and necessity to the public, he said.

REFUSED AMERICAN OFFER FOR CHEAPER SHELLS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, June 4.—[The British government recently refused an American offer to supply five million shells at lower prices than are now being paid, was admitted by the War office in the House of Commons this week. "The offer was refused for reasons unconnected with the price," said the War office representative, adding, "it would not be in the public interest to disclose the reasons."

LEIGHTON'S ATTORNEYS ARE PLANNING AN APPEAL

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Edgerton, Wis., June 4.—Attorneys Hal R. Martin of this city and Henry H. O'Brien of Milwaukee, private counsel for William A. Leighton, are preparing an immediate appeal from the decision of Judge H. L. Maxfield rendered in municipal court yesterday in the action of the State against Rev. E. C. Carlson of Palmyra, Wisconsin. The attorneys state that the appeal will be vigorously prosecuted in the circuit court. In the meantime search will be made for the whereabouts of the defendant.

Commencement Exercises. The commencement exercises were held in the Edgerton high school last evening and was attended by a large and appreciative audience. The senior class this year numbers twenty-six, and is one of the finest classes ever graduated from the high school. The class had great class spirit and were always entered into the different contests and athletics. This year Frances Curran won the oratorical contest and Miss Bernadine Girard second in the declamatory. They were represented on the football field with three members and in the basketball team there were two. Last night the following program was rendered:

Invocation.
Prayer by Rev. Linnevald.
Music—Mrs. Van Ness Green.
Address—President Silas Evans.
Vocal—Solo—Norman Hargraves.
Wassamaker.

Waledictory—Miss Bernadine Girard.
Presentation of Diplomas.
Class Song.

Munz of Minnesota, president of the National association, will also speak.

WHILE OFFICERS APPEAL FOR FIELD GLASSES THE "SPORTS" HAVE THEM

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, June 4.—While hundreds of appeals for field glasses appear in the personal columns of the London papers in behalf of young officers at the front, the followers of the race, still have plenty of binoculars with which to view the horses. A picture of the grounds at Newmarket, showing the crowd with glasses to eyes following the race, appears in one of the London newspapers, while below appears the appeal for these instruments made by Lady Roberts. Commissioned officers must largely furnish their own kit in the British army, and their pay is only nominal. Glasses are naturally out of the reach of the noncommissioned officers. One of the last acts of Lord Roberts was an appeal to sportsmen for glasses for the front, and before leaving on his trip to France he wrote a second appeal, which was found after his death.
